

Exploring key trends in online and blended learning

The 10th MVU Online Learning Symposium on November 17 will explore key trends in online and blended learning and examine real-world orientation and support strategies for online learners.

Keynote Speaker

The keynote speaker will be John Watson, founder of Evergreen Education Group of Durango, Colorado. Watson and Evergreen help schools choose and implement the right online and blended learning strategies that help schools meet education goals.

Micourses.org Showcase

Through an inaugural statewide catalog showcase, participants can network with representatives from local and intermediate school districts that collectively offer more than 2,000 online course titles in the statewide catalog. The showcase will enable attendees to visit with and learn from experts who are making 21f work. View the statewide catalog »

Symposium Topics

The symposium will examine a variety of topics to help school leaders prepare for the growing demand for online learning as both a consumer and provider, including:

- Recent updates to Section 21f of the State School Aid Act •
- Teaching strategies for online and blended learning environments
- Online course review strategies
- Best practices for mentor training and support •
- Latest research regarding the effectiveness of online learning

Cost and Registration

The cost is $25.00 and registration is open. Please join the conversation on Nov. 17.

MICHIGAN IRTUAL UNIVERSITY

Learn More >>

Register Now >>