KIA Mission

We offer programs and services that encourage the creation and appreciation of the visual arts. The Kalamazoo Institute of Arts provides life-enriching opportunities for the people of West Michigan and beyond to experience and create the visual arts through its commitment to excellence for the art school, exhibitions and collection.

Organization Information

The Kalamazoo Institute of Arts is a 92-year-old art school and museum and one of the region's leading cultural resources. It presents about 15 exhibitions annually, a wide variety of educational programs and events, and about 300 art classes. It also maintains a growing art collection and a fine arts library.

The KIA's Mary and Edwin Meader Fine Arts Library is open to the public for research and enjoyment. KIA members may borrow materials. The Librarian provides staff, faculty, members and the public with research and reference assistance. Library collections include more than 10,000 books, as well as exhibition catalogs, videos, art-related periodicals and artist files. The library offers a variety of programs that help fulfill the KIA's mission and promote use of library resources.

The Library is open to the public approximately 16 hrs per week.
