

James Webb Space Telescope

The Webb telescope will be the largest one ever put into space. It will see the faintest light in the Universe, so we can understand how the first stars and galaxies formed.